

SQUIRE POULSON SUICIDES BY HANGING

COUNTY JAIL IS SCENE OF MAN'S DEATH

Darby-twp Peace Officer
Was to Go to Columbus
Workhouse Today
IS FOUND BY STOUT

Shower Room of Bastile
Is Place For Act

Rather than be taken to the Columbus workhouse to work out a fine of $75 and costs for intoxication, Squire Charles E. Poulson, aged 68, justice of the peace of Darby-twp for the past 20 years, took his life by hanging in the shower room of the county jail early Thursday. His body was found, with his knees nearly touching the concrete floor, at 7 a. m. by Nelson H. Stout, Circleville-twp constable, whose term for intoxication comes to an end today.

DEAD SIX HOURS
Coroner C. E. Bowers, summoned by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff, pronounced Poulson dead by hanging, and after an examination decided he had been dead for five or six hours, evidently hanging himself between 1 and 2 a. m. Six other prisoners on the floor with Poulson, Scott Seymour, James Hamilton, Hamilton Chandler, James Shaffer, Charles Harris and Nelson H. Stout, retired at shortly before midnight. None of them knew what time Poulson went to bed.

NOTE IS FOUND TO THE SHERIFF

A note was found in one of Squire Poulson's pockets Thursday which asked that his brother, W. A. Poulson, and Tom Burgett, both of Orient, be notified to take care of everything.

The Squire, in his note, also thanked Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff for his courtesy during his stay in jail.

Shoulder straps from a pair of overalls, such as are provided prisoners in the county jail, were used by Squire Poulson to commit his deed. He tied one end of the straps to a water pipe on the ceiling of the room. He tied several straps together, putting one around his neck. When Stout entered the shower room Thursday morning, he called for the other prisoners, and Seymour, a trustee, cut the man down.

Poulson was arrested last week, and Saturday was fined $75 and costs and committed to the Columbus workhouse until fine and costs were paid. He was given until Wednesday to provide the money. He had failed to obtain the money and Wednesday afternoon said to James Shaffer, a prisoner, "I'd rather be dead than go to the workhouse tomorrow."

WAS WELL KNOWN
Poulson, arrested by the Sheriff's office, was probably better known than any other person in northwest Pickaway-co. He was a defendant's witness in the Van Horn murder trial, having issued a warrant for the arrest of Walter Lewis for assault and battery of Mr. Van Horn which was never used. He resided alone and was never married.

One day last week the Sheriff's office received a call from Derby that Squire Poulson was drunk, had a revolver and was making threats against several persons in the village including the postmaster. Two deputies were dispatched to the village to take Poulson into custody, after which arrest he pleaded guilty to intoxication. Several complaints had been received previous to this.

The body was removed to the funeral home of M. S. Riechert, S. Scioto-st, where funeral arrangements will be made for the arrival of his brother, W. A. Poulson, of Orient.

GRIMES KAHLER IS HONOR STUDENT

W. Grimes Kahler, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Kahler, completed his four years of high school work at New Holland with 20 credits, an average of five each year, and an A average in each of his studies. He was the highest graded student in his school and received a gold key emblematic of this honor at commencement exercises held there last Thursday at which 10 students graduated.

Besides being an honor student, young Kahler, who will attend the engineering school at Ohio State University, next fall, was one of New Holland's finest athletes until last winter when he suffered a badly sprained knee. He was unable to take part in the county basketball tournament because of this injury and was also kept off the track team for the same reason.

HUNT KILLER IN UNDERWORLD

Newspaper Man and Politician
Murdered in Los Angeles
Before 'Exposé'

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—The Los Angeles underworld was being combed today for the slayer of Charles Crawford, prominent politician, and Herbert Spencer, veteran police reporter and former city editor of the Los Angeles Evening Express.

Both men were slain by an unidentified gunman. He met them in Crawford's private office, conversed with them behind locked doors for more than an hour and escaped after the shooting.

Spencer, shot twice with a .38 calibre pistol, died almost instantly. One bullet struck him in the chest, another in the stomach. Crawford died four hours after he was shot in the abdomen. A blood transfusion and a major operation failed to save his life.

After 18 years of service on the Los Angeles Express, Spencer, who was 45 years old, last February, bought a half interest in a local magazine, "The Critic of Critics."

The magazine dealt with the exposure of gambling and graft. Crawford, who was 52 years old, was well-known in Los Angeles political circles. He was a heavy advertiser in the magazine of which Spencer was co-proprietor.

The editors of the magazine had been investigating gambling interests that have entrenched themselves in Los Angeles and Hollywood and Spencer had threatened to expose the "Al Capone of Los Angeles" in the current issue of his magazine. Crawford, according to Spencer's friends, was supplying the magazine with information upon which the asserted expose was to be based.

McNamee Sued For Separation

NEW YORK, May 21.—Graham McNamee today admitted he was being sued for separation. The radio announcer said the action was started several weeks ago by Mrs. McNamee. The papers were filed in the supreme court and were sealed.

Some of the difficulties of a radio announcer's wife were revealed recently in a magazine article by Mrs. McNamee. She said she never knew when to have dinner ready and often she had made pancakes for her husband at four o'clock in the morning.

She also wrote of some of McNamee's eccentricities as she saw them—his absent-mindedness, his fondness for practicing golf putting on the living room rug, and his insistence that one of the five radio sets in their home be turned on whenever he was in the house.

CITY COUNCIL, S. V. T. AGREE IN RAIL CASE

Long Meeting Wednesday Evening Devoted Largely to Traction Co.

TO FILL-IN RAILS
Argument Over Liability
That Settled

Scioto Valley Traction Company's rails will be treated as soon as that company puts it's O. K. on an ordinance passed by city council Wednesday evening in which an agreement on how the unused rails through the city should be treated to best advantage, without being removed.

Council passed an ordinance in which the traction company at its own behest shall clean the groove and the rail and paint with asphalt paint; fill in the groove and rail with bituminous material, and chip off prominent protrusions and depressions.

All this work is to be done under the supervision of the city engineer and the service director. The traction company is also to maintain the improvement for a period of one year from the date the service director has put his approval on the work.

IN CONTROVERSY

The traction company and the city dwell in lengthy controversy over the clause of liability for accidents which occur previous to the time the rail repair has been completed. After considerable talk, lasting until nearly 10 p. m., City Solicitor Paul Adkins and H. A. Cryder, S. V. T. representative, withdrew to Adkins' office to insert the necessary words in the ordinance. When they returned, the ordinance was unanimously passed by council.

This section reads that on the completion of the work the city releases the traction company from any and all liability, costs, damages and expenses contingent to, or arising from the rails, provided that the traction company shall completely indemnify the city for all liability arising on or before the completion of the work and the acceptance by the service department.

Mr. Cryder was not certain whether or not his company would stand for this clause, but said that he would submit the ordinance to the company's attorneys for study.

The ordinance was originally written by the traction company, asking to be released from any liability from the time the work was accepted as completed.

SUIT CANCELED

It is understood that rails on Washington and Pickaway-sts will be removed. The traction company, however, has refused to do anything with the rails on Ohio-st. In the ordinance as adopted by council, the suit brought against the traction company for removal of the rails will be withdrawn and proper entry put on the common pleas court record.

GEO. H. BENDER DENIES CHARGE

CLEVELAND, May 21.—George H. Bender, former state senator, today entered a plea of not guilty to charges of embezzlement and perjury in connection with his activities as director of the Marshal bill reveal campaign when he was arraigned before Common Pleas Judge James B. Rhul.

Judge Rhul granted the accused man the right to change his plea when Bender's attorneys announced they would file a motion to quash the indictment containing the charges which was returned by the grand jury late yesterday.

The trial date was set for June 8 and bond was fixed at $5,000 which was expected to be furnished.

Bender was granted a temporary leave of absence from his post as commissioner of Cleveland's new Stadium by City Manager Daniel E. Morton, following the return of the indictment.

The indictment charged Bender with perjury in his sworn statement to the Secretary of State regarding the expenditure of the constitutional law enforcement league which supported the campaign against the Marshal liquor bill in 1927.

Circle 2 Hours—Land Safely

Pilot Charles Weiblen is shown above with the three women passengers whom he brought safely to earth after circling for nearly two hours over Bettis airport, at Pittsburgh, with a disabled landing gear. The plane, shown partially wrecked in lower photo, was bound from Pittsburgh to Buffalo. The accident to the landing gear occurred just as the ship took off. A plane dashing in pursuit warned the pilot of his danger, and while 500 anxious persons watched, the endangered plane began its long battle to land safely. Although the plane was damaged, no injuries were suffered.

State Tries To Take Two Lives

COLUMBUS, O., May 21.—One year and one month from the day when 322 Ohio Penitentiary prisoners were ensnared in the fiery folds of screaming mad death, the first of two convicts was brought into Franklin-co Criminal Courtroom to stand trial for first degree murder in connection with the memorable holocaust.

The prisoner is Clinton Grate, 31, of Dayton, who was jointly indicted with Hugh Gibson, alias Gibbons, 36, of Cleveland. Both have pleaded not guilty to the charges contained in two joint indictments returned against them.

In County Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskin's possession are signed confessions of each—confessions to repeated attempts to fire the new "solitaires" which were under construction when the scourge of wholesale death swept over Ohio penitentiary.

TELL OF ACTIONS
In detail, the convicts' confessions tell how the pair stealthily constructed a slow burning candle case, lighted it, and left it to await eventualities.

Grate, known to his prison pals as "Cotton" Grate, scarcely presented the appearance in court today of the "killer type" one would vision from mystery novel descriptions.

Spectators jamming the rusty old hall of justice had difficulty identifying the accused man. Of slight stature, fair complexion and clean cut features, Grate almost belied the criminal role.

A closer view revealed a young man of high nervous tension, eyes which observed persons and situations in detail, and a calculating mind.

Those who had followed the case in its earlier phase and were familiar with the confessions on which the first degree murder indictments evidently were based, anticipated evidence for the state, designed to show that Grate and Gibson deliberately disregarded loss of life which might result from their arduous deed.

John A. Connor of the defense counsel, will challenge the state to prove charges in the joint indictments, that the defendant deliberately and in premeditation caused the deaths recorded in the penitentiary disaster.

BLAMED WIRING
In his preliminary remarks Wednesday, Connor blamed the fire on defective wiring in the new cell blocks where the fire was first noted. He said that a guard and some prisoners will testify that during the fire they saw red hot wires hanging on the rafters in the "T" and "K" cell blocks.

"The defense will show that if any lives were lost, they were lost through criminal negligence and lack of leadership," Connor told the jurors.

At this outburst, Judge Cecil J. Randall cautioned the defense attorney that he was becoming argumentative.

Technically, Grate will be held to answer for the death of one Howard Eashar, a prisoner who was sentenced from Franklin County on an auto stealing charge.

CHILICOTHEAN AWARDED MEDAL

NEW YORK.—A book made from materials and with tools provided by nature in a primitive South Sea island will be produced by Dard Hunter of Chillicothe, O. Hunter, who last night was awarded the gold medal of the American institute of graphic arts said today he would sail shortly to make the new book using paper made from bamboo trees and island grasses. The ink will be made from tree bark.

Hunter, who is said to be the first man to make a book complete, plans the new volume as his autobiography.

STANDARD OIL DEFENDANT IN CRITES' CASE

Claims Violation of Contract and Effort to Move
Him From Properties

WANTS $24,615.56

Says Company Failed to Provide Gas

H. M. Crites, local business man, filed suit in common pleas court against the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, for $24,615.56 damages for violation of contract and in the suit named E. C. Fricke, justice of the peace, party defendant, and was granted a temporary injunction by Judge J. W. Adkins, preventing Fricke from acting on a move of the oil company to oust him from his service station on S. Court-st.

Mr. Crites, through his attorneys, C. A. Leist, and T. J. Abernethy, of Columbus, claimed that the Standard Oil Co., stopped providing him gasoline through a contract signed in 1928, on May 8, 1931, and that even during this time the contract has not been filled by the oil company. The defendant in the case filed suit against Mr. Crites in justice of the peace court, asking that he be removed from the premises on S. Court-st in which Mr. Crites had been dispensing gasoline. Crites claims in his petition that he built the gasoline station and that it was leased by the gasoline company for a period as long as gasoline was furnished. He said on May 8, 1931, he was notified that the company would discontinue furnishing gasoline and that he was ordered to leave the premises.

Crites says that in the contract for purchasing gasoline from the Standard Oil Co., he was to receive the product one-half cent per gallon less than the regular price for rental for his station, which he did not receive.

His petition says that in the time the station has been operating, 230,778 gallons of gasoline have been sold, and since the company failed to live up to its contract, he claims he is entitled to $4,615.56. Mr. Crites claims he is also entitled to $20,000 for damages for the company trying to force him from his premises.

TWO ARRESTED
Ora and Frank Shaffer, of Columbus, were arrested by members of the Sheriff's office, Wednesday, and are being held in the county jail on a charge of investigation.

SPEAKMAN HELD
George Speakman, of this city, is in the county jail, having been arrested by members of the Sheriff's office, Wednesday, on a non-support charge.

He will be arraigned before Squire E. C. Fricke.

FOLLOW CASE TO HIGH COURT

G. G. Adkins and Meeker Terwilliger Named by Council
In Berger Fight.

George G. Adkins and Meeker Terwilliger were employed as assistants to City Attorney Paul Adkins, by city council Wednesday to follow the Berger will case to the court of appeals, and to the state supreme court if necessary. The stipulation to be paid to carry the case to its completion is $1,000.

Mr. Adkins, S. and Mr. Terwilliger were employed by the city at the beginning of the case to go through common pleas court. They were paid $1,000 for this step in the action, but after the city had won its suit in common pleas court, on a decision of Judge Harry S. Core, of Ottawa, the heirs to the Berger estate announced through their attorney C. A. Leist, that the suit would be carried to the appeals court.

Since Mr. Adkins and Mr. Terwilliger's contract ended at the court of common pleas, it was necessary that counsel be employed to see the case to the end.

It is estimated that should the decision of the common pleas court be confirmed, the city will receive $40,000 from the estate of the late Frank P. Berger, which will be established as a fund for Berger hospital.

Killed Officer

Robert S. Montgomery (above), 25-year-old Princeton graduate, and Park Avenue, New York, playboy, shot the manager of the exclusive Club Chanticleer, in Washington, D. C., murdered a police man who attempted to prevent his escape, and then committed suicide. The tragic shooting occurred when Montgomery became enraged over the club manager's refusal to give him a table he desired. Rushing to escape from the scene of the shooting, Montgomery met Patrolman Jesse Taylor at the entrance to the club. He shot the officer through the heart and, stepping to the sidewalk, fired two shots into himself, dying later.

CLASS PLAY IS TONIGHT

"The New Poor" is Presented
Two Nights by Graduating Class; 8 P. M.

Circleville high school's Senior class play, "The New Poor," will be presented this evening and Friday, in the high school auditorium, under the direction of J. W. Fetherlin. According to E. I. Gephart, principal of the high school, sale of tickets has gone much over the top, and the largest crowd in years is expected to see both performances.

The plot of the story is based around the disappearance of a $40,000 painting which has been in the Welby family for years. Mary Maudsley, a detective story writer, and Detective O'Farrell try to solve the mystery by blaming the new servants.

Reserved seats will be on sale at the door at the school house. Members of the play casts include: Clarence Barnhart, Jeanette Bower, Leo McClure, Ruth Carothers, Lucille Dumm, Eloise Eldridge, Abram Gordon, Elizabeth Groom, John Hegele, John Himrod, Gerald Horn, Martha Kinney, Lucille Kirkwood, Gertrude Lammann, Virginia Nelson, Berlin Noble, Martha Osborn, Doris Peters, Paul Radcliff, Rod Rader, Mildred Ritt, Robert Rooney, Mary Roth, Mary Angela Ryan, Dorothy Sampson and Phyllis Wagner.

The play will begin at 8 p. m.

OHIO MAY RULING ON COURT ON

Chain Store Taxation
Measure is Introduced
Toledo Representative

FARMERS IN TALK

Public Hearings to Begin
Next Monday

COLUMBUS, O., May 21.—The intangible and income tax bills were drawn out of the session bill heap, upon which thrown yesterday a chain store measure, modeled after the law that was recently passed by the United States Congress.

Beginning next Monday the senate and house committees will devote a week to a joint public hearings on measures proposing the taxes upon cigarettes and products, amusements, and bills dealing with the of the state tax commission by budget commission, and taxes and automobile license.

FIRST EFFORT
Introduction of the chain tax bill by Rep. Fred C. Meyer of Toledo, yesterday was an effort to put to rest the of the supreme court, and additional revenue, state and to carry the of chain stores.

A measure similar to that placed in senate circulation week by Senator Walker (R) of New Philadelphia.

The Meyer bill provides following graduated rates: $3 a year; two to $5 each; five to ten dollars each; 10 to 20 stores, more than 20 stores $200.

Meyer estimated that the tax law would yield approximately $4,000,000 for the state.

Representatives of Ohio addressed the senate and taxation committees last support of the intangible come tax measures.

any further tax on intangible or amusements was however, by C. E. Wharton, president of the Ohio farm clubs of Ohio.

voiced taxing intangible property.

"CUT EXPENSES"

"Cut expenses" is the slogan to raise more revenue from taxation," Wharton declared, "less than your income and sure to die rich."

Wharton pleaded with the legislators to "help the farmer" and asked that they be given "a plan from farm extension work."

he charged that the Ohio state agricultural college and the Western experimental station had been "enemies of the farmers."

"Don't give us any more farm agents," Wharton pleaded and asserted his opposition to further appropriation of funds for the Western experimental station.

Wharton said that the farmers had saved millions of dollars in halting the work of the Ohio movement by federal and state agricultural agencies and that more than 5,000 "useless employees" had been cut off the payroll as a result. He opposed governmental inspection of cattle on the farms and other activities in the rural districts by governmental agents.

H. G. McGee of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, submitted a copy of a resolution adopted by the chamber's board of trustees urging that "for the purpose of placing Ohio manufacturing and agricultural interests on a par with states in which they are competitive and of maintaining the economic encouragement of investment in Ohio securities by Ohio investors."

First, remove tools, machinery, equipment and inventories from general property taxation.

Second, maintain Ohio public and qualified foreign investment stocks tax free.

INGSTON

London Aid Society of the church met on Wednesday evening, May 18, in the Community Room. The room was decorated with baskets of spring flowers. The meeting was called to order at 8:30 o'clock with forty members present and the president, Mrs. Louise Morris, presiding.

A song "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us," was followed by the reading of the 147th Psalm. The Scripture lesson, The Lord's Supper, was repeated by all. The chairman of the Parsonage committee, Mrs. G. L. Borders presented a bill for $12.80 for supplies used on the Parsonage.

It was decided to give a dinner for the Kiwanis club of Chillicothe in the near future and the secretary was ordered to write to the secretary of the Kiwanis club, and invite the club to come on a date convenient for the members.

The high school orchestra played as the members and their guests assembled.

At the conclusion of a delicious dinner, John H. Dunlap, Jr., Alumni president for 1931, presented the toastmaster of the evening, Attorney James H. Eymon, of Marion, who was a member of the first graduating class of Williamsport school. Several responses were given by former graduates. Superintendent H. J. Bowers, introduced the class of 1931 and presented the class to the Alumni as members.

Mr. Russell McMillan gave the class a cordial "Welcome." Rev. C. Swearingen also gave a short talk. The occasion which also celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the school, was a very beautiful affair. Much charm was added by the decorative features. Huge boughs of green leaves formed a low canopy above the table of the honored guests, while surrounded on all sides were seated "grads" of former years, together with their guests, with the class colors of scarlet and gray, and Alumni colors of blue and gold, attractively intermingled. Spring flowers in profusion, and lighted wax tapers in appropriate colors, adorned the tables.

Near one hundred and sixty were present, to enjoy this very interesting occasion.

The May meeting of the W. F. M. S. was held on Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. John L. Hunsicker. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker.

A song by the assembly opened the program. The devotionals were given by Mrs. Thomas B. Gephart, the program leader. A short business meeting followed. A short playlet was presented by Mrs. C. Swearingen, Mrs. T. B. Gephart, Mrs. Katie West, Mrs. Fred L. Tip-ton, Mrs. W. D. Hefskell, Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Jr., and Mrs. John L. Hunsicker.

Vocal solo by Mrs. John H. Dunlap Sr. The chapter from the text book was reviewed by Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker.

The program closed with the Missionary Covenant. During the social hour the hostess and her assistants served delicious refreshments to a splendid attendance.

The June meeting will be held with Mrs. Emma Wiggins.

On Sunday morning, May 17, the annual Thank Offering of the W. F. M. S. will be held at the M. E. church at the worship hour.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hess, of Chillicothe were Sunday evening visitors here.

Attorney and Mrs. H. H. Crabbe, of London, spent Mother's Day with her mother, Mrs. Phylla Toole.

Richard Metzger was a Saturday visitor of his mother, Mrs. Andrew Schwarz.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stonerock entertained a large number of guests Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Sr., entertained with a dinner at their home, Sunday.

Mrs. McClelland W. Newhouse will be hostess to her card club Wednesday evening.

Miss Emma Barr returned home Monday after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Isaac Bell at Ashville.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowers and family of near Amanda, Samuel Hartman and Irwin Strayer of near Bremen, were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Valentine.

Howard McDonald is still in a critical condition at Berger Hospital, Circleville.

Melvin Spangler of Columbus, were here Friday evening and attended the Tarlton grade school commencement at the Community Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fox and family of Oakland, were the Sunday guests of Perry Aldenderfer and family.

Mr. and Mrs. James Boyer attended the closing day exercises at Pickaway school Friday where their daughter Helen, has been attending the past year.

E. E. Defenbaugh purchased the Wayne Reichelderfer farm Monday for $70 an acre. His son William, will remove there soon. The other tract of land lying in Salt-creek Valley was purchased by H. G. Hiatt of Amanda.

CHICAGO SEES "AIR PARADE"

City Stunned by Mammoth Exhibition of 672 Army Planes in Maneuvers.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Chicago today was treated to a roaring exhibition of aerial strength by the war birds of the United States army.

With the lake front of the metropolitan area all the way from Evanston to Gary, Ind., as their theater, more than 650 planes demonstrated wherein aviation excels as a means of attack or defense.

The mere parading of the ships against an azure blue sky was stupendous. More awe-inspiring, however, was the mock warfare that followed in the vicinity of the navy pier.

The maneuvers were of a scale undreamed of by the Wright brothers the day they launched their crude contraption at Kittyhawk, N. C., shortly after the turn of the century. They were the greatest of their kind in world history.

Hundreds of thousands of land-lotted Chicagoans and suburbanites gazed skyward as the United States army provisional first air division, with a total strength of 672 ships, took part in the review.

Today's maneuvers represented the first concentration of the army air service before the fleet proceeded to the Atlantic seaboard to meet a mythical national foe.

Other officers chosen at the meeting here included Walter Ross of Bedford, W. S. Foulks of East Liverpool and H. W. Elliott of Westerville, directors to serve two-year terms, and E. E. Evans of Toledo, Vernon Metcalf of Marietta, and Carl Schultz of Piqua, directors to serve one-year terms.

ARMED BANDIT OBTAINS $50,000. DETROIT, May 21.—An armed bandit held up Mr. and Mrs. Walter Irving, of Indian Manor village, today and robbed them of jewelry valued at $50,000.

The bandit forced his way into their car as they stopped at the side of their exclusive apartment house and ordered Irving to drive away. Several blocks distant the thief called for the jewelry piece by piece, indicating he knew what valuables the couple was wearing.

He escaped with two companions who were waiting in another car.

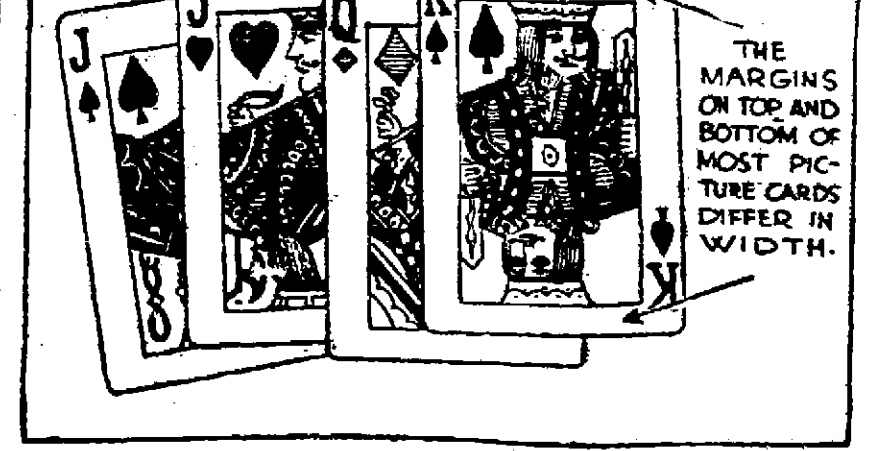

ROTARY GOVERNOR ORGANIZES CLUB. Meeker Terwilliger, governor of the 22nd district of Rotary, organized a Rotary club at Osborn, O., Wednesday evening. A charter will be presented to the new club during the week of May 25th, which will be one of the last official acts for Mr. Terwilliger before he sails for the International convention, at Vienna, Austria.

REPORT OUTBREAK. HAVANA, Cuba, May 21.—The government of President Machado officially admitted today that revolutionary outbreaks against its authority had occurred at the interior cities of Mazanillo and Jiguani with some disorders reported at several other cities but declared that all such attempts had been suppressed.

God divided man into men that they might help each other.—Seneca.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by WILLIAM LINDHOLST

HOW TO TELL WHEN A CARD HAS BEEN TURNED

Take four picture cards from a pack and notice the difference in the width of the margins at the top and bottom of the cards. In some packs this difference is quite pronounced, while in others it is scarcely perceptible. At little close study will enable you to detect the slight variation between the top and bottom of the cards. When you take the cards from the pack arrange them in your hand so that the wide margins are at the top. Then place them in a row on a table turn your back, and ask some one to turn one of the cards around. When this is done you face about, observe the top of the cards and you will notice that one has a narrow margin. It is easy for you then to point it out in the card that has been turned.

LIE DETECTOR IS 'OUT IN TRIAL'

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 21.—Judge Grant Crumacker indicated today that Virgil Kirkland, 20, will have an opportunity to attempt to prove his innocence before the jury by means of a lie detector in his second trial for the alleged murder of Arlene Draves, 18.

Leonard Keeler, builder of the detector, and Coroner Herman N. Bundeen of Cook-co were called as witnesses to testify to the efficiency of the device, but Judge Crumacker said that through them he was merely giving the defense a chance to introduce testimony for the record.

RETURN TO WORK. LOGAN, O., May 21.—More than 100 employees were back at work in the Logan Shoe Manufacturing Co. here today following re-opening of the plant on a 600-pair a day basis.

CLASSIFIED ADS PAY

BURLEIGH GRIMES GIVEN SUSPENSION

NEW YORK, May 21.—Burleigh Grimes, star St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, was today ordered suspended for three days and fined $50 in addition for "violation of the playing rules and inexcusable conduct on the playing field," according to announcement from the office of the National League president, John A. Heydler.

The incident that brought about Grimes' suspension occurred yesterday's game between St. Louis and Brooklyn, when the temperamental pitcher objected too strenuously to an umpire's decision.

The storm tests the vessel. The man who gives up his conviction because it is unpopular is less than a man.

Any member of the family of Miss Anna Mack, 445 E. Franklin-st., is invited to be a guest of The Herald at the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

The Bank of Health

The interests of good health
someone has likened the body
to a checking account in the bank.
The checking account will continue growing as long as the deposits exceed the withdrawals. Neglect to make deposits to cover them is bad banking, and neither banker nor depositor feels at ease when withdrawals keep too close step with the deposits.

Isn't it very much the same with your private "health bank?" As long as you deposit a lot of health
to your credit you will have a lot of health at the disposal of your check book. The blank checks in a check book in the "bank of health"
are not any more inexhaustible than those in any other kind of check book. Unlike financial banks, the "bank of health"
doesn't provide additional checks
when your last check is gone.

Deposits in your health bank may be made in many forms. They may be regular sleep, proper eating, exercise, of recreation, plenty of work with both mind and body,
right posture, fresh air, communion with nature and other health deposits. Every walking and sleeping hour may thus be made a deposit in the bank of health.

When people are not making deposits they are quite often drawing checks. In regular hours of sleep every deposit which is withheld is a withdrawal. You observe regular hours and the proper kind of food in the proper way or you make a demand on that health balance. You must work, play, think,
and laugh or cause a run on the bank of health. Deposits in this bank are always working capital
but they require deposits to keep that capital working.

"People in poor health know that the bank of health pays a high rate of interest compounded, to its consistent depositors."

Getting New Business

The progressive business firm finds that it needs to be constantly making new friends and creating a new circle of customers.
If it just depends on satisfying
those who have previously bought its goods it is likely to see its trade diminished. Population changes more rapidly now than formerly, and if a firm has a certain list of customers this year, it can expect, as the result of all the changes that naturally occur, that a considerable proportion of those customers will not be on the list
in a year or two.

Also people are changeable in their habits, and unless a very energetic effort is made to hold old customers by advertising, a lot of them will go elsewhere, attracted by the various inducements that are offered them.

People are not much inclined, as they were formerly, just to trade or a few places right along year after year. They are quick to get the idea, if some firm seems to be hustling a little harder, than its competitor to please the people, and no feeling of habit or sentiment of loyalty is apt to hold them, if they think they can do better by going elsewhere for something they want.

By an active campaign of advertising, a firm can keep making new business friends, to make up for those who drift elsewhere. It does not take elaborate persuasion to win such new customers in these times.

People are ready to go to any place of business where the spirit of enterprise and hustle seems to prevail. A concern that makes it a regular practice to advertise,
even if it does not take any great amount of space, will have a constant stream of inquirers entering its doors, who will more than make up for old customers who go elsewhere.

POLICE OUSTED

NEW YORK, May 20.—Two ousted New York policemen were behind bars in the Tombs today,
waiting to be sentenced Tuesday for second degree assault. They were Patrolmen William B. Lewis and Edgar P. MacFarland of the vice squad, found guilty of attacking and "framing" Mrs. Genevieve Fotocchi, while raiding her home.
A jury in general sessions yesterday agreed after four hours' deliberation that the men were guilty. The maximum penalty for the former vice raiders is two years in prison and $1,000 fine.

ANOTHER INDUSTRY IN TROUBLE

Dave Ordway, wealthy, young aviator, makes forced landing in an orange grove in the hinterland of Florida. Looking for the owner to pay for the damage, Dave comes upon two beautiful girls in overalls.

CHAPTER II
"HOW do we know you aren't one of Mueller's men?" demanded the blue-eyed girl uncompromisingly.
"Call him up and ask him," shrugged Dave.

"The only telephone within six miles is at his house."
"All right, then, I'll use his.
Which way do we go?"
She turned and inspected him deliberately. She missed no detail of his sun-bleached brown hair,
the wind-pickers at the corners of his steady gray eyes, of the somewhat too prominent chin, or of the broad, sloping shoulders that gave a clear-cut line of strength to his tapering, lean-hipped body.
"You mustn't go to Mueller's," she told him. "He doesn't like strangers and, besides, you're clipped off the tops of twenty or thirty of his trees. His groves meet ours right here."
"Then I'll have to see him anyway," he said. "I'll have to pay him for the damage."
"He isn't a pleasant man," said
the younger, black-haired girl.
"The best thing you can do is to go away as fast as you can."
"Have you a car that I could hire to take me to his house and then to the nearest railroad or bus line?"
"We have a car," answered the girl with the hair of glinting gold,
"but it's out of commission. We haven't been able to use it for weeks."
"I'm sort of a bright little boy
around engines," he persisted.
"Maybe I could fix it."

A Helping Hand
"Oh, that would be wonderful!"
exclaimed the younger girl, hopefully. "Joan, please let him try it."
"All right," agreed the other negligently. "But I still think that he'd better go before Mueller comes around."
"May I introduce myself?" ventured the flier. "My name is David Ordway."
"I am Joan Marbury," nodded
the older girl with a perfect poise.
"This is my cousin, Sally Marbury."

Sally's black eyes fell shyly under his direct gaze. She turned and followed Joan, who had already begun to walk in the direction whence they had come. Dave,
more than a little diverted, strolled
after them.
They emerged from the grove into a little clearing beside the rusted country road which he had seen from the air. At the end of a pathetic attempt at lawn-mowing stood a two-story house of weathered brick which had once been a perfect and beautiful example of Southern Colonial architecture. Across its front was a wide veranda, duplicated by a railing balcony at the second-floor level. The overhanging roof was proudly supported by several futed Corinthian pillars, from which graph-white paint was peeling in long, scrofulous splinters. One of the columns was missing, leaving a gap as conspicuous as a missing front tooth. A shutter on the side facing the grove was hanging at a rakish angle; the other had been blown away
during the fierce storms that come to Florida in the early fall.

Behind the plantation house an old barn leaned wearily upon its foundations as if heping for a sudden gust of wind which might relieve it from its duty of remaining longer in a comparatively upright posture.
Dave was conscious of a distinct sense of depression. There was something vaguely ominous about the whole place which the sheer loveliness of the venerable house seemed to accentuate rather than to dispel. An air of brooding melancholy had settled over it, intangible as a night mist but just as definitely there. What were two such girls doing here? Surely there must be some man about the property.

Another Score
Joan led them to the rickety
barn and tugged at the sliding door, which creaked and shuddered upon its rusty rollers. Within was a dust-covered Ford touring car of ancient vintage.
"Mueller tried to fix it," he explained simply. "He told us the repairs would cost almost as much as a new car."
The pilot opened the hood and explored with expert fingers. His face was bleak as he straightened up and turned toward the girls.
"Someone has deliberately smashed the commutator with a hammer," he said. "You can get another for a dollar or two and it will take less than five minutes to install."
"I'll order one sent from Tampa
by bus," Joan said wearily.
"I think I can put it on myself. Another score for Mueller!"
She turned abruptly and walked toward the house.

"Who is this bird, Mueller, anyway?" demanded Dave, walking beside Sally. "From everything I've heard you say, I'm beginning to think I'm not going to like him."
The black-haired Sally placed a small, tanned hand upon his sleeve.
"Please, Mr. Ordway, don't go near him," she begged. "Really,
Joan is right. You must go away."
Her eyes looked into Dave's with an expression of concern for his safety that gave him a distinct thrill.

"Look here," he said suddenly.
"Are you two girls here all alone?
Isn't there some man here to look out for you?"
"My father died nearly a year ago," Joan flung over her shoulder,
not looking back.
"Oh, I'm so sorry," he said con-trictly. "But aren't there any other men to help you?"
"Mueller has offered his services," she replied. "But we're on our own, Sally and I, except for Hannah, our cook."

"That settles it," he declared.
"I've a longing to meet the amiable Mueller that only an interview can satisfy. But first, if I can find a bucket of water and some soap, I'll come out from behind my disguise."
He glanced down again into Sally's deep eyes and found something reflected in their blackness that stirred his pulses. He leaned slightly toward him, watching her cousin carefully.
"Please don't think we're rude,"
she whispered. "Joan's getting so
she is hardly polite to strangers.
But it's just because she's had so much to worry her."

There was no opportunity for him to reply. They had reached the paintless front steps which led to the porch. Joan, still cool and impersonal, led Dave through a dim hallway, high-ceilinged, long and exquisite in proportions. Great square rooms to right and left indicated that in the days of its youth the old mansion had been the home of people both cultured and wealthy. Now the wall paper was faded, the rugs patched and threadbare. But the dark, musty odor so often a part of aged houses was not there. Poverty there might be; dirt and shabbiness none.

The flier was shown to an old-fashioned bathroom on the first floor. Ten minutes later he emerged, feeling himself again.
His shock of unruly hair had been plastered down until the hated waviness was no longer in evidence. His bronzed face shone from repeated applications of soap and water. His strong, large hands were a bright pink from the friction of a nail brush. His shaggy tweed sport suit, which had been protected from the engine oil by khaki overalls, were immaculate,
and bore the invisible imprint of a London tailor.

A tea wagon, one of those wheels were slightly askew, had been rolled to a shady corner of the high-ceilinged veranda. Upon its glass top was a pitcher of fresh orangeade and a chocolate cake such as no hotel or club chef
in Dave's experience had ever fashioned. Sally, who was pouring, had changed into a dress of flowered organdy and looked distract-ingly pretty. Her piquant profile was etched against the background of greenery beyond and, when she suddenly turned and glanced at him, Dave flushed guiltily, conscious that she had caught him staring openly. But if she had been offended, she made no sign,
turning demurely back to the table
and busying herself with the filling of the tall glasses.

"Too bad I can't offer you ice,"
she apologized, handing him a cool tumbler. "Three years ago we had electric refrigeration operated by current from Kathy. But, of course, even the poles are down
now."
"Kathy?" echoed Dave, puzzled.

"Yes. You must be the only person in the United States who doesn't remember the name. I thought every man, woman and child in the country bought a lot or a grove here."
"I was in Europe during the real estate boom in Florida," he told her matter-of-factly.

Just A Memory
"Kathy was an elaborate subdivision about two miles from here," she explained. "It was a sort of earthly paradise
set down in the midst of orange blossoms and tropic flower gardens. It was wonderful for a while, but when the bottom dropped out at the end of the boom it gradually reverted to the jungle."
Dave had ceased to listen. He sat perfectly silent, his ears attuned to a familiar, faraway hum
in the afternoon sky. The girl heard it, too, and looked toward the southern horizon.
"Mueller's plane, I guess," she shrugged carelessly.
"Is Mueller a flier?" demanded
Dave, astonished.
"I don't think he is a pilot but he owns at least one plane," Sally explained. "Joan and I both think he has several planes, but he's never invited us to look into his hangar. Joan wouldn't have gone
if he had invited us."
Dave stared at the rapidly-growing dot in the sapphire sky.
Larger and larger it became until presently it roared over the house at a considerable altitude. He rose and walked to the edge of the porch where he could follow it with his eyes. It flew straight northward for a quarter of a mile,
then, suddenly, the beat of its motor ceased as it swooned downward in a long spiral, disappearing from sight behind the tops of the nearest orange trees. Dave stood motionless, listening intently. The muffled roar sounded again, but the plane did not reappear. At last the noise dwindled into nothing.

"Rheumatism" Covered
A Multitude of Ills

In Other Days Any Pain in a Joint Was Dubbed Rheumatism, but Today, Says Dr. Copeland, Science
Delves for the Real Trouble

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WE HEAR little these days about
"old-fashioned rheumatism." The disease has not disappeared, however, but the name has changed.

The term "rheumatism" has been placed in the background because more accurate descriptive terms have been found. Though the effects of the complaint and particularly the pain are identical, it is now customary to speak of joint pain as "arthritis."

Likewise, we have special types of arthritis, as "goutic" or "hyper-trophic arthritis" and "rheumatic arthritis." True rheumatism with involvement of the joints, is spoken of as "rheumatic fever," although it may be associated with true arthritis.

All this may seem unnecessary and unimportant. However, it is quite important for the physician to know whether he is dealing with atrophic or hypertrophic arthritis and as to whether or not there is true rheumatic involvement.

Resourse to the X-ray, examination of the blood and urine, in addition to a study of the symptoms of the sufferer, are needed to determine accurately the nature of the disease. This accuracy is of vital importance for the future welfare of the patient.

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. K. Q.—Is it healthful to drink water before breakfast every morning? Will this relieve or help an acid stomach?

A.—Yes, the acidity should be overcome by proper diet and regular elimination. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A READER. Q.—Would infected or diseased tonsils be apt to affect the bladder?

A.—Not necessarily, although the infection from this source would naturally affect the entire system, to a greater or lesser extent. Have the tonsils removed if they are diseased.

V. T. Q.—What will develop the legs?

A.—Exercise should be helpful to ward this end. Jumping, skating, brisk walking, running, as well as dancing, are of value under the circumstances.

A READER. Q.—What would ease the eyes to be bloodshot after attending the movies? What treatment would be helpful under the circumstances?

2.—What will remove callouses on the hands?

A.—It is not wise to take anything in the nature of a medicine or drug unless it has been prescribed for
you. Salts are apt to prove weakening and debilitating. Watch your diet and take plenty of exercise and you will not have to resort to such measures in order to keep the system clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope
and repeat your question.

2.—Not necessarily, but it is not wise to use either salt or pepper to undue amount.

1932 Predicted For Dem. Party

"It looks like a Democratic year for Ohio in 1932."

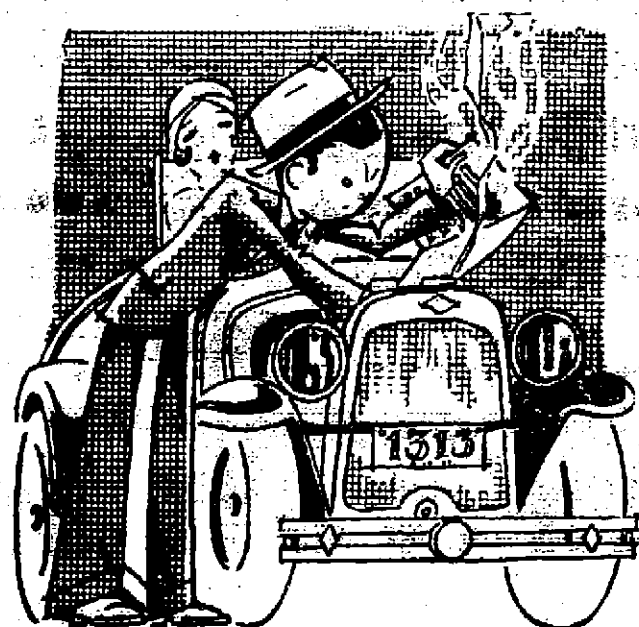

Thus Leo R. Sack, sharp-eyed political expert for the Scripps-Howard newspapers, sums up the sentiment he found prevailing among Ohioans during a recent survey he made in a visit to the state.

Reporting that "This is the way Columbus observers size up the political situation," Sack continues: "Their prediction is based on widespread dissatisfaction with the administration in Washington and on the satisfaction with which Democratic leaders are viewing the regime of Governor George White."

Feeling the pulse of Republicans, he tells the readers of his newspapers: "A year in advance of the presidential nominating conventions, Ohio Republicans find themselves in despair as they hear President Hoover being widely criticized for failure to mitigate the hardships of depression. It was Ohio which in the spring of 1928 launched President Hoover on the road to the White House by giving him its electoral vote in the primary over the vigorous opposition of the Democrats."

Elizabeth's Fiance?

A recent portrait of the Rev. Clyde H. Roddy, of North Arlington, N. J., and formerly of Clinton, La., whose engagement to Elizabeth Morrow, daughter of U. S. Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, was announced and as quickly denied. The announcement came from the Rev. Mr. Roddy's sister in Louisiana, but contradiction was immediately forthcoming from both the Morrow estate and the youthful pastor. If the marriage is consummated, the Rev. Mr. Roddy and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will be brothers-in-law.

board, are being tipped daily to succeed him, said:

"If the country still is in a depressed condition in November 1932, it will be a hard battle. I am not deluding myself regarding the 1932 campaign."

Manifesting less than no faith in President Hoover, another noted Ohio Republican, more forthright, less regular than Chairman Fess, warned that "1932 is not going to be an ordinary political year." He was Charles L. Knight, former Congressman, brilliant editor, who wrote in an editorial in his Akron Beacon Journal:

"Hoover, of course, will be re-nominated and we can think of no Democrat who could fail to beat him."

Assailing a reported plan of Maurice Maschke, Republican tycoon of Cuyahoga county, to prevent to the Republican primary voters a hand-picked slate with James T. Begg as the candidate for governor and Gilbert Bettman, present attorney general, as his choice for the United States senatorship, Editor Knight rejected this ticket of "two Big B's."

And, rejecting it, he said editorially that Mr. Maschke's "alliterative wisdom about the two Big B's stuff is immense." He continued: "To those who realize what the good man wants to do, the two Big B's will connote Bountiful Benevolence; to those who realize the vicissitudes of political fortune, a Bum Bet; to those who understand how all such schemes work, a Bad Break; and to those who care what is going to happen at election under these circumstances to the two Big B's, a Big Bust."

SIGHTED A WHITE DEER
YREKA, Calif.—W. A. Stull, workman at the Highland Mine in the mountains southwest of here reports having seen a white fawn near the mine. The deer, the skin of which is used in the white deer skin dance of the Indians, is very rare and such animals have seldom been seen here. On three occasions the white fawn and its mother approached close to Stull's cabin. He has not seen it recently and fears that coyotes may have killed it.

HOW MEN SHOULD BOSS WIVES IS SETTLED BY STAR READER

A guide for husbands, explaining exactly how they should treat their wives to get the best results, has just been completed by Evangelist Adams after a long study of stars and the zodiac. The result is a primer which supplies detailed astrological methods for insuring marital happiness. All a man needs is the date of his wife's birth, and the job is done. It's as easy as that.

"There are twelve kinds of wives," Miss Adams explains. "One woman's meat is another woman's poison, and there are certain husbandly formulas for treating wives." Going through the cycle of the year, she supplies the formulas:

Wives born between April 21 and May 21 are normally quiet and easy-going, but when roused are likely to be headstrong. Husbands, therefore, will do well not to rouse them. They are exceedingly fond of the comforts of life, and their homes and children. Their husbands must see that they get a regulated emotional life. So far as love is concerned, there should be few difficulties with them, for they are warm and affectionate. Their chief trouble in this respect comes from their tendency to take too much for granted.

Wives born between May 22 and June 21 are versatile and love variety. They are over-sensitive, but they have a gift for affection. Husbands should satisfy their desire for change "by encouraging them to resolve themselves into two persons by carrying along two kinds of work at the same time."

Wives born between June 22 and July 23 love travel, adventure and romance. Their husbands, if wise, will keep their minds and hours well occupied.

Wives born between July 24 and August 23 feel that they rule by divine right. Husbands should accept this fact philosophically and content themselves with encouraging every use of their wives' power and magnetism for the common good.

Wives born between August 24 and September 23 are intellectual, and their husbands must help them to live up to the opportunities for mental development which the stars have given. These wives must be kept from talking too much, from being over-critical, and from a tendency to keep too much to themselves. Husbands must persuade them to present a more antique in mechanical transport. It is still runs, even if it has only two cylinders, and on the original tires. The wheel base is 80 inches and it is painted a bright red.

Wives born between September 24 and October 23 have a great understanding of masculine temperament and adjust themselves readily to the demand of the men they love. They are willing to grant a good deal of personal liberty to their men, and wise husbands will reciprocate often, encouraging their wives to engage in the arts.

Wives born between October 24 and November 22 face great opportunities and great dangers. Husbands must be careful not to let the force of their impulsive natures lead into indiscretion and excess. They are very magnetic and have a strong physical appeal to men; this should be guided by making their magnetism operate on a high plane.

Wives born between November 23 and December 22 have a tendency to brusqueness of manner and bluntness of speech, but if they conquer these traits, their social success is assured. Their husbands should help them to exercise patience and tenacity, remembering always that they are of the breezy type rather than the romantic.

Wives born between December 23 and January 20 have strong domestic instincts. Husbands must help them to exercise finesse and to keep their affections on a spiritual plane. Husbands must set them an example of courage and generosity, for they are inclined to be self-centered and stingy.

Wives born between January 21 and February 19 are loyal and successful in family life. They possess intuition almost akin to prophecy, and husbands must never forget that they belong to the whole world.

Wives born between February 20 and March 21 are sensitive and sympathetic. If husbands find them drawn first offe way and then another, there is no need to be discouraged, for much can be done to help them make up their mind, and to convince them of their ability to do anything they start out to do.

Wives born between March 22 and April 20 are aggressive and husbands must exercise patience and tact. They are generous and love practical achievement, but they are inclined to be critical and overbearing. Husbands must handle them with gloves.

AUTO AMONG ANTIQUES
ALLENTOWN, Pa.—Plastered with license plates over its battered body, the 22-year-old automobile owned by "Barney" Hoffmann forms the local contribution to the antique-in-mechanical transport. OHIO STATE DEANS DO "ABOUT-FACE"
COLUMBUS, O., May 20.—Turning "about face" on its previous stand, the faculty of Ohio State University today prepared to transmit to the institution's board of trustees with its disapproval the petition signed last week by more than 600 students demanding that military training be made optional instead of compulsory for freshmen and sophomores.

The faculty reached its decision to disapprove optional student "army work" in a special two and one-half hour meeting last night. The vote on the question was 144 to 9. A week before, by a vote of 131 to 64, the faculty voted to recommend that the trustees make military training optional.

Great Rally By Grocers Margin

Coming back after apparently being drubbed to submission, the independent Grocers banded the Oilmen's first defeat in the season Wednesday evening. A great ninth inning rally which added the Grocersmen 11 runs did the trick after the Oilmen had led throughout the contest. The final score was 23-15, by far the largest score any game has produced this season.

The Oilmen were crippled. Neither Dick Robinson, catcher, nor Charley Stevens, third sacker, were on hand for the contest, and the reserve strength of the Oilmen was not sufficient to carry the victory.

The game was replete with errors each team committing plenty and if the scorers, there were two of them, were able to obtain even half of them they were fortunate.

The game was very long and drawn out, lasting nearly an hour and one-half. The Oilmen grabbed the lead in the first inning, counting five runs. They tallied four, then three, then two and then were stopped.

The Grocers began their slow rally in the fifth when they scored two markers, following in the sixth with two; three in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Reds And Giants Planning Trade

BY LES CONKLIN
NEW YORK, May 21.—Dan Howley, energetic manager of the Cincinnati Reds, told the writer early this morning that he hopes to swing a deal with the New York Giants today before the Cincinnati club concludes its eastern trip and starts westward.

With six of their best men on the shelf due to injuries, the Reds are badly crippled and Howley is making desperate efforts to patch up his lineup. He conferred with John McGraw for an hour last evening and will talk trade with the boss of the Giants again this afternoon.

The injured Redlegs are Harry Heilmann and Nick Cullip, outfielders; Mickey Heath, first baseman from the Pacific coast; Joe Stripp and Leo Durcher, regular infielders; and Benny Frey, right-handed pitcher.

"Even with Heilmann and Heath out, we started our eastern trip by winning four out of five," pointed out Howley. "Then the others got hurt and we were in a bad way. Cullip was going great until he split a finger. Stripp's hand may be broken."

"We've got to get some replacements quickly and I'll trade anybody on the club except Red Lucas and Si Johnson (both pitchers) to get them. We could use an infielder and a catcher, but Lucas and Johnson will not be traded under any circumstances."

"Johnson is the best rookie pitcher I've seen this season. He has pitched six corking games, although he won only one, from Boston. The others were kicked away on him."

Johnson, who came up from Columbus, was beaten yesterday by John Berly, Giants' rookie hurler from Rochester, but How-ley thinks Silas is even better than Berly.

One of the Cincinnati players ruefully declared that the club was getting too much "Burley." Burleigh Grimes, of the Cards, and John Berly were the only hurlers to whitewash the Reds this season.

Howley thinks that either the Cardinals, Giants or Cubs will win the National League pennant this season, and is inclined to favor the Cards to repeat. He figures the Cubs, who have had tough sledding in the east along with the other western clubs, will do much better on their home grounds.

Howley's remark that he will trade any man on his club except Lucas and Johnson may mean that Ray Kolp, veteran hurler, will go to Brooklyn as has been rumored lately. Brooklyn has more infielders to spare than have the Giants. And infielders are Howley's crying need, with Heath, Stripp and Durcher injured. One of the Robins' outfielders might be thrown in for good measure.

ROBERTS IS VET BOXER

Everts Amusement Card Friday Evening Promises To Produce Real Action.

Jumping Johnny Roberts, one of the Ohio's leading bananians despite his long ring career, gives off the appearance of an honest-to-goodness windmill once he swings into action with his long, ambling arms cutting the air in all directions.

This chap, with headquarters in Columbus, is to appear in the main bout on the opening card of the Everts Amusement club when it presents its inaugural effort, Friday evening.

He is booked to meet Luther Eyer, another rough and ready 126 pounder from a rival stable of mat tossers in Columbus.

From the sound of the initial gong, he is lastingly carrying the warfare to his foe. As a result, his record shows he has emerged from his numerous ring contests as the victor by a wide margin. While the other contestant was content with countering, Robert always was boring in and consequently was handed the palm. On many other occasions, no verdict was necessary as the jumping one landed one of his lethal punches to the whiskers.

In Eyer, Roberts will encounter a foe man worthy of testing every ounce of his ability. Eyer, a hard punching youngster with words of courage, is one young man who may send the veteran to the land of nod, and accomplishment which none of secret of others has been able to boast.

Athletics Make Folly Of Chase

NEW YORK, May 21.—The Philadelphia Athletics today went further about their business of slackening the interest in the American League race by recording their twelfth straight victory. But a rubber band will stretch just so far and the world champions will probably continue to draw a considerable share of the spotlight as the sports world ponders how long they can maintain their dizzy pace.

Conne Mack's sensational 1931 drive is based mostly on good pitchers. He is smacking back the ears of his rivals one by one by simply alternating four good hurlers.

Lefty Grove's turn came yesterday and he was as invincible as George Earnshaw the day previous, the A's withering Detroit, 3 to 0. Earnshaw allowed only three hits and passed four. Fox and Miller homered and Simmons hit safely again, pushing his batting average up to .438, which is considerably more than any hitter in either league may offer.

Buzz Arlett, the great Californian who made the Phillies a first division club, set the eagle shrieking with two circuit blasts as the good brothers came from behind to toss the Pirates, 11 to 7. Arlett is now leading both leagues in homers with 9, ranks second in National league hitting with a .355 average and to date has batted in 29 runs.

Another rookie, John Berly, up from Rochester, blanked the Reds, 4 to 0, for the New York Giants. Bill Terry's homer with 2 on in the seventh was important.

Babe Herman singled in the ninth to score Thompson and Brooklyn won from Cardinals, 5 to 4. Manager Street, Coach Ware and Burleigh Grimes were barnished for umpire sassing and Grimes may not be available today on the St. Louis mound.

Manager Roger Hornsby finally benched Hack Wilson, and the shakeup was a rabbit's foot for Catcher Gabby Hartnett, who polied a homer, a double and two singles to lead the hitting in the Bruns' 7 to 5 win over Boston.

Baraway gave Washington only three hits while Sam Jones was coaxed out of six by the White Sox, but the Senators won, 2 to 0. White Sox errors helped and a Chicago fan got the spirit of the thing by reaching out of left field stand to watch a ball hit by Spencer, Washington catcher. It might have been good for a triple, but as it was it went for a home run.

Stewart was better than a bevy of Boston hurlers, St. Louis annexing it, 8 to 4, from Boston. Most of the Brown's 15 hits were bunched in the first two innings, netting seven tallies. Pickering homered twice for Boston.

DEATH OF MRS. MARION LAMENTED

Washington Grange, No. 2,340. Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in his infinite wisdom to take from our midst to His eternal home our beloved sister, Edith Marion,

Therefore be it Resolved, That in the death of Sister Marion, we lose from our order a most noble and upright character, a true and sympathetic friend and a sister beloved by all who knew her and whose departure we deeply mourn:

"Peaceful be thy silent slumber, Peaceful in thy grave so low; Thou no more shall join our number,

Thou no more our sorrow know; Yes, again we hope to meet ye, When the day of life is fled, And in Heaven with joy to greet thee,

Where no farewell tears are shed. Be it further Resolved, That the heartfelt sympathy of Washington Grange No. 2,340, be extended to the bereaved family in this their hour of grief and sorrow.

And be it further Resolved, That these resolutions be placed on the Grange minutes, a copy be sent to the bereaved family, and a copy be sent to the Daily Herald for publication.

The Rip Van Winkle Idea was never Right
CIVIC PRIDE can't afford to sleep for a single instant
You have seen them yourself—drowsy, lazy, indifferent communities sleeping away priceless hours when other towns and sections are working night and day to bring civic pride up to a high pitch. And such communities get such a "running start" that it is difficult to ever catch up with them. When a Rip Van Winkle's town does awaken it faces a giant task.
In towns where paint is almost a religion, where the clean up, dress up and perk up idea persists, real estate values are higher, homes are more popular and are worth more, and progress is in the very air.

Eyes Of Business Women Focussed On Richmond

The eyes of 60,000 business and professional women from all parts of the United States are turned towards Richmond, Virginia, where the first biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will be held July 6-11. Approximately 2,500 delegates, representing 1,300 local business and professional women's clubs, will attend.

Eight special trains from various sections of the country will carry the delegates to the convention. Chief among these is the President's special, on which Miss Marion H. McClench of Ann Arbor, Michigan, the National President, will travel. This train will start from Chicago early on July 4th, and make official stops in Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Virginia.

In characteristic modern fashion Miss McClench will begin the trip by air, taking off from the Ann Arbor airport at 8 o'clock on the morning of July 4th and flying to Chicago to join the train. An official guard of honor made up of members of the Board of Directors of the Michigan State Federation will accompany her.

Miss Cornelia Adair, who is associate chairman for the biennial convention, will fly from Los Angeles, where she is to attend the convention of the National Education Association, to be present at the opening session in Richmond. Miss Marjorie Shuler of New York City, National Publicity Chairman and Miss Chari O. Williams of Washington, D. C., National Education Chairman, probably will accompany her.

The convention will officially convene Tuesday evening, July 7th, with a keynote address by Miss McClench. Mr. Walter J. Millard of Philadelphia will speak at the same session on "A Better Order in Public Relations." Wednesday evening will be International night, honoring Miss Lena Madson Phillips of New York City, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women and Honorary President and International Relations chairman for the National Federation. Mme. Mary Laudner, president of the French Federation and other foreign guests will attend. Thursday evening will be a mass meeting, with an address by a noted economist. Morning and afternoon meetings throughout the week will be given over to business, with the final business session Friday afternoon.

On Monday evening, July 6th, Governor John Garland Pollard will open to the delegates the historic Governor's Mansion where so many celebrities have been received, and Virginia night will be celebrated with an appropriate program.

During the two days preceding the opening of the convention meetings of the board of directors and occupational round tables will be held. The latter will bring together women specialists in many fields. Advertising, teaching, cafeteria management, library work, salesmanship, the law, transportation, insurance, journalism, purchasing, personnel and employment work, real estate, finance and retail store service will be some of the subjects discussed. A special round table will be held for women in public office and another for radio employees and executives.

Women careerists will be featured at a series of special breakfasts. Judge Camilla Kelly of Memphis, Tenn., is to speak at a breakfast for women judges and Mrs. Ora H. Snyder, of Chicago, millionaire candy manufacturer, at one for owners of businesses. A western sheep rancher has been asked to speak at the unusual occupations breakfast. At a fourth breakfast community projects undertaken by business and professional women's clubs will be discussed. Representatives from the Woman's Home Companion, Ladies' Home Journal, McCall's and other leading women's magazines will attend a press dinner at which Miss Marjorie Shuler of New York City, National Publicity chairman and a member of the staff of the Christian Science Monitor, will preside.

Classes in parliamentary law, citizenship and community service and personal grooming will be held during the week. Walter J. Millard of Philadelphia will direct the citizenship and community service classes. Miss Catherine Oglosby of New York City will conduct the classes in personal grooming, an innovation at business women's conventions. Some of the subjects will be "Looking Your Job," "Getting Along with Men" and "Which with What?" Under the latter title Miss Oglosby will give a practical demonstration of the selection of a business woman's wardrobe, with models assisting her.

IN WAR PRISON 13 YEARS
BRESLAU.—Thirteen years after the close of the great war, Karl Knappe, German war prisoner, has just arrived from Siberia at his home village, Hain, Silesia. Knappe was sentenced to hard labor for a "disciplinary offence" and had to work in a mine. He brought with him letters from two fellow prisoners, whose sentences were soon to expire, to their relatives in Salzburg, Austria, and Hohenelbe, Czechoslovakia, but the letters were seized at the border, by the Russians.

PITTSBURGH—An 80-year-old bicyclist in West Newton, near here, was finally "thrown" after 40 years of reputedly flawless performance with all varieties of cycles. Joe Davenport smashed up his bike when he plunged into a stone wall because, he said, "the brake wouldn't hold." He has ridden a cycle since the days of tall three wheelers.

PREPARING STAGE PRESENTATIONS IN HOLLYWOOD.

CECIL DE MILLE

MARION DAVIES

The novelty of talkies has ceased to be a source of wonder to the great God "Public" and Hollywood, always on the qui vive with its finger on the pulse of public sentiment, has been quick to see the advantage of varying the diet of pictures with a tempting stage presentation as a rare-bit. Fanchon and Marco now maintain in Hollywood a huge studio for preparing stage shows to be presented in movie houses all over the country. Many big producers, such as Cecil de Mille, are leaning toward the new idea and the recent Marion Davies film shown in New York, supported by an all star stage presentation proved such a big success that the new vogue is sure to be generally adopted.

Hollywood On Broadway... Undertones... Overtones

By DAVID P. SENTNER

NEW YORK.—Tallulah Bankhead, that Alabama girl with the cosmopolitan look in her eyes, made her debut in talkies... at Broadway premiere of her picture "The Tarnished Lady" all the trimmings were there but California sunshine and the royal horseguards... even turned spotlight on the gilded names in audience... the gilded ones took a bow... you can't tell me they don't have to practice those thing-a-ma-jigs... how can searchlight man in theatre box put them on spot unless he practices.

Tallulah swell addition to talkies... even if her whispers are sometimes too refined... doncher know, Tallulah, there are no secrets in movie industry... her first picture not up to possibilities of Tallulah... it loses its temperature, temper and tempo right in middle... starts, sophisticated, turns into pathos and then runs downhill into comedy, little baby crying in crib, and oh so movie-ish... looks as if producers tried to please city folks and the movie fundamentalists in the hinterland at same time.

Mrs. Edline Price Wood, author of "East Lynne" did not live to see two things... one was her novel written seventy years ago turned into talkie... other was establishment of mutual copyright protection between England and America... authors owe debt of gratitude to Mrs. Wood as mother of international copyright... her novel greatly abused at time by publishers making use of it... friends started movement to protect her interests...

They say everybody likes to read what the bride wore... so there goes... she wore a long-trained gown of ivory colored satin with long sleeves down to fingers and a shoulder-line puff which gives tapering effect to arms... a very long ivory meline veil of orange blossom trim... her sandals are of ivory shot through with silver... she carries a small bouquet of orange blossoms and orchids... the bride is Mae Murray in "High Stakes."

LANDINGS IN MOUNTAINS
SACRAMENTO.—A bill appropriating $50,000 for emergency airplane landing fields in the mountains of California has been approved by the assembly Aviation Committee and sent to the Ways and Means committee.

A resolution memorializing Congress to transfer certain oil lands situated in Kern-co from jurisdiction of the Navy Department, to the Department of the Interior also was passed.

Strong, Powerful Yet Safe, Moone's Emerald Oil Has Astonished Sufferers.

Here is a wonderful antiseptic oil now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will do more for your skin than any other remedy. It is a sure cure for all skin diseases and anything you've ever used.

It is a little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of larkspur, itchy skin and other irritating and painful skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any drug store for 25 cents. It is a safe, reliable and failure in any of the claims listed above is a refund of the money. Hamilton and Barton can guarantee it.

NOW IS PLANTING TIME FOR FLOWERS

Now is the time to be filling your porch boxes and flower beds. Your roses, both monthly and climbers should be planted now, than a bed of monthly roses and if you have the room the climbers will soon be paying their returns in a wealth of bloom.

A tip about trimming. If your Privet hedge shows and considerable amount of dead wood, now is the time to cut it back severely. Do not be afraid to cut. We are all prone to be in too big a hurry to get a hedge and as a result it is not trimmed back like it should be and so does not spread at the base and leaves and waste paper lodge there. Cut it back to about six inches if necessary and you will be pleased with the result when it comes out again. Most spirea gets too high and one wonders when to trim it. Right after blooming is the proper time for if trimmed at any other time the bloom is sacrificed for the bloom comes on the new wood that grows the year previous. Most climbing roses should be cut clear back immediately after blooming and the new shoots will start if they are not already started, this gives you new wood which will all furnish bloom and gets rid of the old wood which harbors scales and insect pests. This seems drastic but results will justify it. Dr. Van Fleet and other similar slow growing climbers should not be cut back so severely as the ramblers.

Choose for your porch boxes and flower beds, plants according to shady or sunny position of the flowers, if in doubt consult your florist.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

The success of the Travers Marl on tests made at other plants of sewage plant operating here has the Travers System, the water con-

given Circleville wide publicity tains practically no B. Coll. B. Coll. throughout the United States. is all bacteriae present in human excrements, including disease breeding germs. Fish will die when water only contains 2 to 2.5 parts oxygen per million. The plant is free from all odors. This fact alone creates a noted contrast to the old biological system which is never free from stenoh. This vile ordorousness which we have learned to associate with a sewage disposal plant, in our minds, is due to the lack of oxygen. The effluent of the old system is highly putrescent content of the sewage which exists in a colloidal form and it is a part of the sewage going out into the stream which causes pollution.

The proof that the old biological system causes pollution in streams is shown by selecting any one of the new biological plants built within the last two to five years and reviewing the facts. For example Marion, Ohio. There existing in the little Scioto below the effluent containing eight Marion Sewage disposal plant at parts of dissolved oxygen per milliliter the time of the examination of the lion, in other words it would support one of the foulest pollution fish and aquatic life at the end lines in all Ohio. Results of the of the treatment tank. Based up-tests made are given below:

Point at which sample was taken	Dissolved Oxygen	Total Bacteriae	B. Coll.
1/4 Mi. above plant	8.1	12,000	100
1/4 Mi. below plant	0.0	10,500,000	28,000
1/2 Mi. below plant	0.0	8,500,000	22,000
1 Mi. below plant	0.0	7,000,000	15,000
2 Mi. below plant	0.2	4,500,000	8,500
3 1/2 Mi. below plant	1.2	1,200,000	2,400

The figures for the dissolved oxygen content are in parts per million.

The figures for the bacterial counts are in numbers per cubic centimeter.

A cubic centimeter is about one-half thimblefull.

It will be seen from the above report that fish life cannot exist for many miles below the last test shown, namely 3 1-2 miles.

Every citizen should be interested in seeing the Travers Marl plant, not only citizens of Circleville but from all the surrounding territory.

The State Board of Health has three chemists who sample and test the sewage effluent, material, etc., every thirty minutes day and night.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

That every citizen is directly responsible for the progress and development of the community in which they live, in proportion to their means and ability.

No man has a right to shrink his share of responsibility toward making the home city a better place in which to live and prosper.

Some citizens need to be reborn with an unselfish devotion to the home city.

There are a whole lot of men living in every city whose knowledge of the city is limited to the place in which they live and the place in which they work.

Every city needs more optimists.

Edson R. Wanda, Shawnee, Ohio.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

That every citizen is directly responsible for the progress and development of the community in which they live, in proportion to their means and ability.

No man has a right to shrink his share of responsibility toward making the home city a better place in which to live and prosper.

Some citizens need to be reborn with an unselfish devotion to the home city.

There are a whole lot of men living in every city whose knowledge of the city is limited to the place in which they live and the place in which they work.

Every city needs more optimists.

Edson R. Wanda, Shawnee, Ohio.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

LOCAL SCOUTS TO ATTEND BOY SCOUT CAMPARALL

At least one and probably more of the local Patrols of Boy Scouts will journey to Columbus for a two day camping trip on June 12 and 13.

During this period of time the boys will set up their pup tents on the campus of Ohio State University and engage in a great camping demonstration with other Scouts from the 9 counties of central Ohio.

The plan is to pick from each county one patrol which will represent central Ohio Area Council at the State Fair in August. Selection will be based upon the spirit the boys display, as well as their proficiency in such camping events as water boiling, cooking, fire-by-friction, signaling, nature study and compass work.

Scouts will receive a great deal of benefit as they will be able to observe the best kind of camping to be found locally. Each group of 8 will be accompanied by an adult who will serve as one of the officers of the Camparall. Scout authorities expect fully 1,000 boys to take part in the encampment.

The public is invited to attend the pageant given at Mirror Lake on Saturday night, August 13, under the direction of Robert K. Verbeck, Camp-fire Director of the Council.

PATROL LEADERS TO HOLD OVERNIGHT CAMP JUNE 6

Patrol leaders, Senior Patrol leaders and Scribes of all Scout troops will be encamped at the reservation of the central Ohio Area Council, Camp Lazarus, located 5 miles south of Delaware.

D. M. Reed, and T. G. Allen will take charge of the Patrol leaders in an interesting program of camp activities. Men who accompany the boys will be given special training in Troop Camping by K. A. Connelly.

As Sunday is the day set for the Annual Visitation and inspection of the Camp by boys' parents, the Patrol leaders are staying during the afternoon to act as guides for the visitors and to put on demonstrations of Camparall events in which they will be trained.

SCOUT PLAN FOR CAMP

Boy Scouts are eagerly awaiting June 22, the opening day of Camp Lazarus. A large enrollment is anticipated for the four weeks during which the camp will be in operation. Activities planned include overnight hikes, water pageants, nature study retreat ceremonies, night games and many other features.

This year there will be many changes not only in the Camp program but also in the personnel and the operation.

D. M. Reed will be Camp Director.

ST. LOUIS—A flat tire generally is recognized as bad luck, but when officers have five prisoners to guard and four flat tires on the police car they have more than their hands full. Special officers Dugan and McManus had just made a "home brew" raid, but when they marched their five prisoners to the police car, they discovered someone had punctured all the tires. A second police car saved the day.

TEACHERS AT NEW HOLLAND SELECTED

At the regular meeting of the New Holland board of education recently, the complete list of school teachers for the coming year were elected. Only two changes were made in the present roster.

Mrs. Grace Cannon and Mrs. Homer Leaverton, teachers of the sixth and eighth grades, respectively, failed to apply for their positions, causing two vacancies, which have been filled.

Following is the complete list of teachers:

Howard L. Rhude, superintendent.

Frank L. Pierson, principal.

Alice K. Field, assistant principal.

Lucy E. Winters, home economics.

Elizabeth Wottring, music and art.

Warren E. Hobbie, eighth grade.

Eunice Dennis, seventh grade.

Charlene Briggs, sixth grade.

Lucille Glazier, fifth grade.

Margaret Campbell, fourth grade.

Mary Ellen Brown, second grade.

Mrs. Ethel Owens, first grade.

CONFERENCE ON PLANTS

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—A conference of Rhode Island and Connecticut investigators into the chemistry and physiology of plants will be held at Yale on June 5 and 6.

Rhode Island state college, Brown University, Connecticut College for Women, Conn. state college, Bartlett Research Laboratories, United States office of forest pathology, Yale, and the local state experiment station will join in the conference.

ILLEGAL DEER

WINSTED, Conn.—12000 is reducing deer herds in the county, according to game warden. The deer are so scarce that hunters have had no success. Investigators say because the warden will approach any auto headlight.

How dull business would be every man refrained from hunting until he could afford it.

Appreciation Is Shown to White

COLUMBUS, O.—A hitherto unheard of method of expressing appreciation of a state administration's policy has been adopted by civic organization of the Hocking Valley in purchasing newspaper space to present a full page advertisement commending Governor George White.
Recognizing the value of newspaper advertising as the medium for addressing a message to the people, the Logan Chamber of Commerce, The Nelsonville Board of Trade and The Athens Chamber of Commerce used private funds to thank the Governor for a decision that resulted in use of brick paving on a highway contract and thus contributed measurably to the promotion of local business conditions.
The advertisement, placed in The Athens Messenger and signed by the three organizations, set forth that "The recent decision to specify that character of road surface on U. S. Route 50 in Athens and Vinton counties, which will do the most to alleviate the unemployment situation and business lethargy in the Hocking Valley, deserves public knowledge and acclaim."
It explains further: "Over 525 men will be required for this construction. Renewed activity for those businesses which can provide these men with the means for honest labor is assured. Business for those who supply them and their families with the necessities of life is enhanced. All this means tangible assistance at this time in needed encouragement and the hastening of business recovery. Farmers, also, will be benefitted by the increased purchasing power this expenditure will provide locally. It was for this purpose of leading direct and immediate assistance to the district that the governor concurred in the requests for a brick surface roadway instead of any other, brick being one of the Valley's chief industries."
As direct results flowing from the award of the contract for nearly eight miles of highway the advertisement points out: "Reopening of the Logan Clay Products plant promises employment to 75 men to furnish 15 carloads of sewer pipe. Reopening of the Hocking Valley Brick Company gives employment to 125 men. Reopening of the Nelsonville Brick Company justifies the employment of 200 men and the operation of the plant beyond the needs of the immediate job."
"The road construction work alone will give work to 200 men. Miners of an undetermined number will be required to provide a tonnage of 117 tons of coal daily for the Nelsonville plant and 75 tons of coal daily for the Logan plants."
"In addition, many men and their truck equipment will be employed."

Gloria Swanson Is Lone Woman Actor-Producer

NEW YORK—The only woman actor-producer remaining in the motion picture field is Gloria Swanson.
Even Mary Pickford has quit, finding producing too much of a burden. But Gloria sticks to her determination to carry the full responsibility in at least two more pictures—thus following the precedent she set several years ago, when she turned her back on a straight acting contract that would have meant $20,000 a week for two years—more than $2,000,000.
There are, as a matter of fact, only two stars besides Gloria who continue to produce—Harold Lloyd and Charlie Chaplin. Harold makes only one picture a year and Charlie less. Both of these men have loyal organizations of years standing. Gloria, on the other hand, makes several pictures a year. And there is absolutely no one to whom she can turn. She has no shrewd relatives capable of advising her, and no tested and tried staff on which she can depend.
Part of Gloria's troubles are financial. She must, shoulder the whole burden of negotiating with bankers, and sometimes it's difficult. On one occasion, in order to keep up appearances, she arrived in Hollywood in the proper private car—but the car was hired on borrowed money.
To her career as star-producer, Gloria sacrificed herself, her home and her husband, the marquis Henri de Falaise de la Coudray.
And you can be sure it was no help to Gloria to realize with that just, clear-thinking brain of hers—the very brain that had led her into such difficulties, almost a man's kind brain—that it was because of her professional life that her marriage had failed.
All of which gives you a picture of another Gloria—a Gloria her intimate friends know, and worry about, and admire tremendously—a Gloria quite as beautiful, brilliant and even more fascinating than the Gloria of the screen.
